Banjo-Kazooie's soundtrack orchestrated by the Synthetic Orchestra

'Banjo-Kazooie Symphony' (Joypad Records) is the latest project announced by the highly regarded Blake Robinson Synthetic Orchestra. The album includes orchestral interpretations of the iconic music featured in each area of the game as well as a selection of extra motifs, melodies & music heard throughout the original title.

'Banjo-Kazooie Symphony' comes hot on the heels of the Synthetic Orchestra's well-received 'Super Metroid Symphony' album released in March. As with the previous album, 'Banjo-Kazooie Symphony' offers 30 tracks totalling over an hour of orchestral music.

Banjo-Kazooie's original composer, Grant Kirkhope said: "It never ceases to amaze me how many people still listen to the music from the Banjo games after all these years, it really is very humbling. I have to say that I'm really honoured that Blake has taken the time and effort to take those old rough sounding tunes and turn them into something that I think is fantastic... I hope you'll all agree"

The album is available in DRM-Free MP3/FLAC format from Loudr: <http://blake.so/banjokazooie> (approved to post) and iTunes: <http://blake.so/banjokazooieitunes> (approved to post). More information, a full preview of each track and a foreword from the original composer, Grant Kirkhope, can be found on the album's website: <http://banjosymphony.com>
